Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurServing promise, one cup at a time.When his world came crashing down around him, Garrett Sharp didnt run. He stood like the man he is and took his punishment. Eight years later, he finds himself in a new life. Its not the life he grew up believing he would live, but its a life all the same, albeit numb and empty. Well, not entirely.Every day across the street from his furniture store, Garrett steals moments full of warmth from Emily Garner. As she floats happily through her coffee shop, Emily provides him glimpses into her soul. Shes pure and full of life in a way Garretts never experienced. Hes never heard her voice and doesnt know the color of her eyes. But he knows she lights up like a beacon when she serves coffee to couples on their first dates. Emily can feel the tingles of new love even when shes not the one experiencing the thrill. And Garrett can feel Emilys joy from across the street.When Emily finally enters

Garretts store for the first time six months after he opens, both their lives change. Garrett must battle the demons of his past to be a man worthy of the woman hes fallen for from afar. Emily has to move beyond her ex-boyfriend and his betrayals to find trust again. If it were only the past challenging Emily and Garrett, their story would be easy. Life is never easy. *This novel contains strong language, violence and sexual content. Recommended for 18+*
